

Deep Space LIVE: Fascination Panorama

Thursday, December 12, 2013 / 8-9 PM / Ars Electronica Center

(Linz, December 9, 2013) Lecturer/author Thomas Bredenfeld will present spectacular panoramic photos at the next Deep Space LIVE this Thursday, December 12, 2013. His fascinating images include wide-angle shots of Linz and Vienna—360° horizontal and 180° vertical images specially prepared for Deep Space's jumbo 18 x 9-meter projection surface. Bredenfeld will also demonstrate what equipment is necessary to do panorama photography.

Thomas Bredenfeld

Thomas Bredenfeld studied electrical engineering and painting. He's a freelance media producer, trainer, lecturer and author. He passionately pursues panorama & large-format photography, as well as interactive imaging that combines his photographic specialties with Web & interaction technologies. His book on panorama photography has become the standard work on this subject in the German language.

Deep Space LIVE

The Ars Electronica Center is now hosting a Deep Space LIVE event every Thursday (except holidays) at 8 PM. Each presentation will feature ultra-high-definition imagery in 16x9-meter format and will be accompanied by expert commentary, entertaining stand-up repartee, and musical improvisation. Whether great works from the history of art, space travel, journeys of discovery in the Nanoworld, or a live concert is what you've come to behold, Deep Space LIVE stands for enlightening entertainment amidst breathtaking worlds of imagery. Admission is €2. Holders of a valid Museum ticket are admitted free of charge.
